EXPLANATION OF IN FORMA PAUPERIS ANSWERS

I wish to explain some answers in my IFP application which may have confused you.

First, the "other" income was actually a $300 settlement from a case that was closed in February. You wanted the average over the past year, so I divided it by twelve. That is why I do not expect this other income to recur in the next month.

Then, there is my expectation of a change in my financial status, and also the "overall living expenses" in the amount of $435 per month. I have currently taken refuge in a place that will take me in, until I can secure other living arrangements. They charge me $435 per month for food, shelter, transportation in the form of communal car-pooling, and also laundry. I expect a change in this situation in the near-future, as soon as another apartment has a vacancy, I intend to move into that apartment at my earliest convenience.

I hope this explains the confusing answers I gave.
